The Peace Conference.

MR. SEWARD TO MR. ADAMS.
DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON,
February [illegible]

SIR: It is a truism that in times of peace there are always instigations of war. So soon as a war begins, there are citizens who emphatically demand negotiations of peace. The advocates of war, after an agitation, longer or shorter, generally gain their fearful end, though the war declared is not unfrequently unnecessary and unwise. So peace agitations, in time of war, ultimately bring about an abandonment of the conflict, sometimes without securing the advantages which were originally expected from the conflict. The agitators for war in time of peace, and for peace in time of war, are not necessarily, or perhaps ordinarily, unpatriotic in their purposes or motives. Results alone determine whether they are wise or unwise. The treaty of peace concluded at Guadalupe Hidalgo was secured by an irregular negotiation under the sanction of the Government.

Some of the efforts which have been made to bring about negotiations with a view to end our civil war are known to the whole world, because they have employed foreign as well as domestic agents. Others with whom you have had to deal confidentially, are known to yourself, although they have not publicly transpired. Other efforts have occurred here, which are known only to the persons actually moving in them and to this Government. I am now to give for your information an account of an affair of the same general character which recently received much attention here, and which doubtless will excite inquiry abroad.

A few days ago Francis P. Blair, Esq., of Maryland, obtained from the President a simple leave to pass through our lines, without definite views known to the Government. Mr. Blair visited Richmond, and on his return showed to the President a letter which Jefferson Davis had written to Mr. Blair, in which Davis wrote that Mr. Blair was at liberty to say to President Lincoln that Davis was now, as he always had been, willing to send Commissioners, if assured that they would be received, or to receive any that should be sent; that he was not disposed to find obstacles in forms, that he would send commissioners to confer with the President with a view to the restoration of peace between the two countries, if he could be assured that they would be received.

The President, therefore, on the 18th day of January, addressed a note to Mr. Blair, in which the President, after acknowledging that he had read the note of Mr. Davis, said that he was, is, and always should be willing to receive any agents that Mr. Davis, or any other influential man now actually resisting the authority of the Government, might send to confer informally with the President with a view to the restoration of peace to the people of our common country.

Mr. Blair visited Richmond with this letter, and then again came back to Washington.

On the 29th ult. we were advised from the camp of Lieut.-Gen. Grant that Alexander H. Stephens, R. M. Hunter and John A. Campbell were applying for leave to pass through the lines to Washington, as Peace Commissioners, to confer with the President. They were permitted by the Lt.-General to come to his headquarters to await there the decision of the President. Major Eckert was sent down to meet the party from Richmond at Grant's headquarters. The Major was directed to deliver to them a copy of the President's letter to Mr. Blair, with a note to be addressed to them, and signed by the Major, in which they were directly informed that they should be allowed to pass our lines, they would be understood as coming for an informal conference on the basis of the aforenamed letter of the 18th of January to Mr. Blair. If they should express their assent to this condition in writing, then Major Eckert was directed to give them safe conduct to Fortress Monroe, where a person coming from the President would meet them. It being thought probable from a report of their conversation with Lieut.-Gen. Grant that the Richmond party would in the manner prescribed accept the condition mentioned, the Secretary of State was charged by the President with the duty of representing this Government in the expected informal conference. The Secretary arrived at Fortress Monroe on the night of the 1st day of February. Major Eckert met him on the morning of the 2d of February with the information that the persons who had come from Richmond had not accepted in writing the condition upon which he was allowed to give them conduct to Fortress Monroe. The Major had given the same information by telegraph to the President at Washington. On receiving this information, the President prepared a telegram directing the Secretary of State to return to Washington. The Secretary was preparing at the same moment to so return, without waiting for information from the President, but at this juncture Lieut.-General Grant telegraphed to the Secretary of War, as well as to the Secretary of State, that the party from Richmond had reconsidered and accepted the condition tendered them through Major Eckert, and Gen. Grant urgently advised the President to confer in person with the Richmond party. Under these circumstances, the Secretary, by the President's direction, remained at Fortress Monroe, and the President joined him there on the night of the 2d of February.

The Richmond party was brought down the James river in a United States steam transport during the day, and the transport was anchored in Hampton Roads. On the morning of the 3d, the President, attended by the Secretary, received Messrs. Stephens, Hunter and Campbell on board the United States steam transport River Queen, in Hampton Roads. The conference was altogether informal. There was no attendance of secretaries, clerks or other witnesses. Nothing was written or read. The conversation, although earnest and free, was calm and courteous and kind on both sides. The Richmond party approached the discussion rather indirectly, and at no time did they make categorical demands or tender formal stipulations or absolute refusals. Nevertheless, during the Conference, which lasted four hours, the several points at issue between the Government and the insurgents were directly raised and discussed fully, intelligently, and in an amicable spirit. What the insurgent party seemed chiefly to favor was a postponement of the question of separation upon which the war is waged, and a mutual direction of the efforts of the Government, as well as those of the insurgents, to some extrinsic policy or scheme for a season, during which passion might be expected to subside, and the armies be reduced, and trade and intercourse between the people of both sections be resumed. It was suggested by them that through such postponement we might now have immediate peace, with some not very certain prospect of an ultimate satisfactory adjustment of political relations between this Government and the States, section or people now engaged in conflict with it. The suggestion, though deliberately considered, was, nevertheless, regarded by the President as one of armistice or truce, and he announced that we can agree to no cessation or suspension of hostilities except on the basis of the disbandment of the insurgent forces, and the restoration of the national authority throughout all the States in the Union. Collaterally, and in subordination to the proposition thus announced, the anti-slavery policy of the United States was reviewed in all its bearings, and the President announced that he must not be expected to depart from the positions he had heretofore assumed in his Proclamation of Emancipation, and other documents, as these positions were reiterated in his annual message. It was further declared by the President that the complete restoration of the National authority everywhere was an indispensable condition of any assent on our part to whatever form of peace might be proposed. The President assured the other party that while he must adhere to these positions, he would be prepared, so far as power is lodged with the Executive, to exercise liberality. Its power, however, is limited by the Constitution, and when peace should be made, Congress must necessarily act in regard to appropriations of money and to the admission of representatives from the insurrectionary States. The Richmond party were then informed that Congress had, on the 31st ult., adopted by a constitutional majority a joint resolution submitting to the several States the proposition to abolish slavery throughout the Union, and that there is every reason to expect that it will be accepted by three-fourths of the States, so as to become a part of the national organic law.

The conference came to an end by mutual acquiescence, without producing an agreement of views upon the several matters discussed, or any of them. Nevertheless, it is perhaps of some importance that we have been able to submit our opinions and views directly to prominent insurgents, and to hear them in answer in a courteous and not unfriendly manner. WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 22, 1865.

Ben. Butler.

Among the men prominent before the American people and that have earned a full share of public notoriety during the past four years, Ben. Butler's may be classed with the foremost. A man of the people, irrepressible, enthusiastic and radical, he was always a force as a citizen and as a politician. A Democrat, he was always in the van. Devoted to party interests he blindly steered that organization upon the breakers of secession, and made Southern men his model and Southern principles his political creed, until having shipwrecked Douglas, blindly assisted to make Democracy the ally of treason, and unwittingly aided to initiate a civil war, he then turned and threw the whole weight of his tremendous influence and moral force upon the side of the Government and denounced as traitors his lately intimate associates, whose private faith had been violated with himself as truly as their public faith had been broken with the Government.

With the same force that he had led the Democracy, he came to the aid of the Administration, with the same zeal that he used to recruit his party, he lent his voice and his name to recruit our armies, and throwing every past consideration aside, we will do Gen. Butler the honor to believe that he cast himself into the breach for the Union cause with more truthful earnestness than he had fought for any other.

Whatever may have been his errors or failures, and there may have been both, Gen. Butler has been one of the leading spirits of our troublous times. In many capacities he has shown himself possessed of great abilities. Even when earning the appellation of "Beast" from the rebels, he was displaying the most astonishing power and tact to rule and curb the fretful hotspurs of New Orleans, and if he brought up with a short turn the female rebels by a few terse sentences addressed to them, and to the world concerning them, he even then displayed his masterly power by reining in the turbulence of women who have been the maddest spirits of the rebel States. It is noticeable that, while we afterwards heard of no insults offered to the women of New Orleans by Union soldiers, we also heard of no more insults offered by them to Union soldiers merely as such.

As a military leader, Butler has not won the renown that naturally belongs to him in the merely executive and administrative parts of his career. His is a great mind, gifted with immense force, and capable of being wielded for much good or ill; and in the present crisis, he has yielded a support to the Government—the value of which cannot easily be estimated, while it cannot be denied that such men, powerful of will and persistent of effort, are often troublesome customers, from the fact that the powers that be must yield to them more than is prudent to secure a continuance of support. To-day Gen. Butler's fame is clouded by failure, and with a promptness that does credit to its firmness at least, he is removed from command by the Government, and has retired to his old home, Lowell, Mass. Others, like him unsuccessful, have been so shelved; but he unlike others, and failing to follow the precedents of military life, true to the education and instincts of the politician, comes before his old convocation of neighbors, representing the thousands, who often have been, and still often may be his constituents, and then makes his verbal report to an excited and enthusiastic multitude, probably not exactly conforming to the idea of the orders from headquarters to report himself at Lowell. Rather more free and elaborate than was contemplated.

Butler's Lowell speech is interesting. He graphically depicts his late career. He finds wit and opportunity to throw out some insinuations not favorable to Grant, and arrays every partisan of his own decidedly against Admiral Porter. He recounts what he has done and some things he has failed to do, no doubt succeeding better in his own behalf, than some others would have done for him. He disclaims emphatically the paternity of the famous powder boat scheme; insists that Porter did not assist him effectually, and that the most distinguished engineers gave the advice he followed. All this is answered by the fact that Porter and Terry took the fort, and that Porter and Butler did not take it, while it is also true that the fortunate expedition had the experience and blunders of the first effort, to assist and guide them in the final achievement of success. The Committee investigating the conduct of the war were examining Butler on the Fort Fisher fiasco, when the news of its final capture came, and the telegram to that effect was received and read just as Butler had emphatically asserted that its capture was an impossibility. Butler's testimony on the conduct of the war, no doubt, became a matter of secondary importance for the time before the Committee.

Defeated and retired though he be, Gen. Butler is to-day prominent and powerful. We regret his want of reticence. A few months of graceful retirement would probably have resulted in some opportunity to serve the country in honorable and useful capacity. There are positions such as he has ably filled that might be offered to him again, but he has unfortunately fallen back upon the instincts of the politician and forgotten the quality of silence and subordination so very appropriate in a military chief. When the history of this war is written, Butler's name will have marked prominence on its pages, and it is useless to deny his great influence upon the Nation and the Administration during the four memorable years just past. Neither is it easy to doubt his probable power in the future to work upon the popular mind, and influence State and National politics. There is still a chance for Butler to be valuable to us in this present struggle, and while we doubt the propriety of his course, there is no reason to doubt his entire devotion to the Union cause.

GREAT INCREASE OF VOTERS.—The late election in Union county shows a great increase of voters. Last spring there were about 600 voters there. Now 1,500 votes are returned as cast for the location of the county seat. A good judge of matters estimates that 800 voters settled there last fall.

SUFFRAGE IN ENGLAND.—An effort is making to extend the right of suffrage in England, which is now restricted to property holders, so that all persons can participate in elections who are intelligent citizens of England.

DEATH OF GEN. PRICE.—The death of General Price, the distinguished rebel officer, formerly of Missouri, was [illegible] by a general order to the army of Arkansas [illegible] that fact.

TENNYSON.—The poet laureate of England, Alfred Tennyson, has accepted the Baronetcy offered him by Queen Victoria. So in future he will be called Sir Alfred Tennyson.

BENJ. ALVORD,
Brig. Gen. U. S. Vol.

Letter from Eugene City.

EUGENE CITY, March [illegible], 1865.

EDS. OREGONIAN:

The advance in flour and wheat, as well as increased demand for farming produce generally, is a matter of much gratification to the farmers, and as a class they are gathering courage to proceed and even enlarge their sphere of operation. This is gratifying, for prices have ruled so low and markets dull the last few years that some began to fear that "occupation was gone." It has become almost a stereotyped assertion, that the agricultural interest underlies all others, so I need not amplify on that point. I hear some complaint however among farmers that the weather recently has been quite unfavorable for putting in crops. One farmer across the river has over 100 acres of ground ready for the seed waiting for a fair day. But on the whole the prospect for an unusually large breadth of growing grain this year is quite promising. The farmers of Lane county are struggling against great odds by reason of their great distance from market, and we trust you will hurry up that railroad or those locks at Oregon City, or that opposition line of boats [illegible] Portland [illegible] port of entry, will now doubtless turn her attention to the [illegible] port of entry [illegible] to [illegible] ports [illegible] as far up the stream as possible.

Your correspondent, in transmitting to you the movement on the tax question in this county, as a faithful and vigilant correspondent ought to have done of course, has had the misfortune to draw down on his devoted head the violent denunciations of some scribblers for the press, anonymous and others. But one good effect of it is a general and for the most part candid discussion of the whole subject. "Justice" and "Constitution" are having a tilt in the State Journal, also [illegible] has a long local article in the same paper, and "E" of this place in the Review. The Corvallis Union and the Astoria Gazette have [illegible] able contributions on the subject, in fact, the case may be so thoroughly tried in the newspapers as to never get to the Supreme Court. But the most I regret is, that my esteemed friend, the publisher of the State Journal, has at last joined in the [illegible] and false accusation that "Comus" writes editorials for the Review, though whether he is moved and instigated thereto by [illegible] as his last Saturday's paragraph would seem to indicate, it is because I have seen fit to [illegible] your paper instead of his with my [illegible] correspondence, I cannot say; but in either case, as Dr. R. would say, it is "very unkind."

But I must not intrude my private griefs upon the public ear. After all, it is only a necessary incident of newspaper correspondence, and more over the public will come to see how it is that material facts and [illegible] suppressed, when a faithful correspondent gets [illegible] handling in certain quarters for simply telling the truth.

The [illegible] Sanitary [illegible] at this place at a business meeting last night resolved to give a public entertainment soon for the purpose of reinforcing their treasury. The [illegible] is looked for [illegible] to-morrow.

It is now nearly ten days that people have been talking of two torpedoes that were picked up at Taboga by the British ship of war, and of the notice given by the Captain of the ship to the Commander of the St. Marys of the possible crossing of this dangerous class of marine visitors. The St. Marys has for some time been kept on the alert. NOBLE CONDUCT.—The citizens of Cincinnati and Louisville having proposed to raise a sum of money for the purpose of presenting Major-General Thomas with a suitable testimonial of their appreciation of his services as a military officer, the General has written a letter in which, while he is profoundly sensible of the proposed compliment, he would greatly prefer that any sum which may be raised for that purpose may be devoted to the founding of a fund for the relief of disabled soldiers, and of the widows and orphans of officers and soldiers who have lost their lives during this war. "I am amply rewarded," he says, "when assured that my humble services have met with the approbation of the Government and the people."

THE WORLD RENOWNED
SINGER SEWING MACHINES!
MANUFACTORY:
182, 184, 186, 188, 190 and 194 Mott street, New York.

Motto—"The Singer Sewing Machines are the only Machines that can Sew all kinds of Cloth, and with all kinds of Thread."

Singer's Letter A Family Machine is the best and cheapest Machine in the world for Family Sewing. There is no doubt as to the value of our Machines for manufacturing purposes, but it is only of late that the public begin to learn that the essential elements of a Machine best adapted to the heaviest work, would also be the elements to be embodied in a Family Machine.

We would ask for our Letter A Machines the attention of Vest Makers and Dress Makers, and all those who want Machines for Light Manufacturing Purposes. They embody the principles of the Manufacturing Machines, making, like them, the interlocked-stitch, and are destined to be as celebrated for FAMILY SEWING and Light Manufacturing purposes, as our Manufacturing Machines are for manufacturing purposes in general.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES are valuable in proportion to the number of things they can do well. See what ours can do before making a purchase.

All persons requiring information about Sewing Machines, their sizes, prices, working capacities, and the best method of purchasing, can obtain it by sending for a copy of the SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET, which is entirely devoted to the subject. IT WILL BE SENT GRATIS.

THE ATTENTION OF THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY is again called to the OLD GREENBACK CASE!

HAVING BEEN COMPELLED TO ACCEPT OF LEGAL TENDER NOTES AT PAR since December 17th, 1862, for the rent of my Handsome Brick Store corner of Morrison and Front streets, I feel compelled to announce for the benefit of the public at large, that Jacob Mayor
leased the building of me on the 17th day of February, 1862, for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the terms were CASH. Since the date above stated I have received the depreciated currency regularly, under protest for the rent of the CITY OF PARIS STORE,
Making less than two-thirds of the real amount said Mayor was to pay. He had secured to a building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in COIN, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public the kind of a man he is [illegible] LEGAL SWINDLING. The public [illegible]

Sketch of the Wreck.—Mr. Jas. McLaughlin, a passenger by the steamer Oregon, made a very accurate sketch of the position of the wrecked bark Industry, as the steamship was laying at Astoria, which has been photographed by Mr. Dalton. We are indebted to the gentlemanly proprietor of the Gallery for a couple of copies. It will be remembered that the wreck of the Northerner was similarly sketched by a passenger in 1860, and published in Harper's. The only copy here of that, so far as we know, is at Dalton's Gallery. The picture of the Industry is said to be very correct by all who have seen her as she lays. The light house and point below, are plainly shown, and the vessel would appear to be under full sail and her ensign flying, as she does, squarely on the sands with all sail flowing, but the breakers are washing over the entire hull.

Recorder's Court.—On yesterday the following parties were up before his honor, Judge Mettey: James Galloway was again before the court for drunken and disorderly conduct, and was committed to jail for five days. He was just out, after a four day's term. Perhaps it was because whiskey was so cheap and plenty, or it may be the Capt. "grubs" them rather high and on better terms than other boarding houses at any rate, a little service a la chain-gang, would be decidedly proper in his case. Or any other man showing such decided symptoms and preference for "bumming." G. Southerland was fined $20 and costs for violently and suddenly annihilating conduct, which amount he handed over. James Lyon, John Carle, H. M. Loudd, were up, charged with running for hotels without license: dismissed at the request of complainant, who paid the costs. State of Oregon against Edward Irwing, charged with stealing a $20 gold piece from the Franklin Restaurant—discharged. Fredenrich, for the State, Dolph for defendant.

Concert.—There will be a grand concert given this evening at the Theatre by the talented young American actress and vocalist, Miss Belle Divine, assisted by a number of ladies and gentlemen, both amateur and professional, comprising the combined dramatic talent of the city. "Little Fanna," who has become a favorite with the admirers of the drama, will appear in some of her pleasing little songs. Miss Divine is a very estimable lady, which is sufficient inducement to "draw" a good house. Her singing far exceeds any vocalist we have had here yet, her voice being almost a soprano. The bill is an excellent one and should fill "the Theater to overflowing." The farce Monday evening was "Jubilee House," in which Belle Divine and Miss Douglas, took the leading parts of "Boarding School Boys." The farce is an inimitable one and the acting of the ladies named, was one of the great successes of the kind we seldom see.

For Lewiston.—The Mountaineer says that Dalligan alias "Broky Jack" and Sullivan alias George Smith, (who left Portland Monday morning) had arrived at the Dalles from Portland, on their way to Lewiston. These are the prisoners that were arrested last year between Virginia City, Montana Territory, and Salt Lake City. They were arrested at Victoria in the early part of the winter and brought to Portland, where they have since remained. They were in charge of Sheriff D. F. George, of Nez Perces County, who saw that they were well cared for at that city, by furnishing them with lodgings at Sheriff White's "Hotel de Crossbars."

Stock and Exchange Board.—The following are the sales at the Stock and Exchange Board, ending March 20th, 1865:

Changeable.—The weather for the past few days has been somewhat changeable and unsettled. On Sunday morning, March 19th, we had quite a sprinkling of snow, which is pretty good for the time of year. The rains have not caused much change, however, in the river of late, as she is now about at a stand-still, with a rapid current.

Later from the Wreck.—The arrival of the Cascade from Astoria, gives us later news from the wreck. The Gazette says ten persons have been lost already. Capt. Van Bergen says a gale was blowing when he left this morning. The masts of the Industry were still standing when he left, but it would be impossible to relieve them with the heavy surf on. It is said that several persons had been seen in the rigging as late as Monday.

In the Dry Docks.—The hull of the late steamer Maria, which was confiscated and sold at auction for violation of revenue laws, a year or two ago, is now in the dry dock at Capt. Clinton's ship yard, for the necessary repairs to make a suitable sand barge.

New Buildings.—Gov. Abernethy has commenced the construction of a new building on the levee, between Yamhill and Taylor streets, for commercial uses. The work is under the control of Mr. Nester, late of San Francisco.

Treasure.—The shipment of treasure yesterday was quite small, $45,000 being the most we hear of by the manifest, $3,500 of which amount was forwarded by Wells, Fargo & Company's Express.

Submerged.—An unfortunate drayman abandoned his calling on A. street yesterday, in disgust, after burying his truck in mire up to the level of the thills. The dray was still there at a late hour last evening.

Oregon Exports.—The steamer Oregon yesterday took a full freight of produce on her trip to Victoria and San Francisco, and was unable to take half that was offered.

No News.—Up to a late hour this morning nothing had come over the wires to San Francisco.

Don't Know what War Is.—Blackwood's Magazine says Prussia is greatly elated over the success of the war with Denmark for the Duchies, but thinks after all its imaginings of having achieved military glory, it was only demonstrated that it does not know what war is. During the war with Denmark it managed to lose nearly 3,000 men, not enough says the Blackwood writer to furnish a single morning's amusement to Grant and Lee. Compared with the war in America, the Prussia, Austria and Denmark affair appears very tame.

It seems that the royal houses of Austria and Prussia have taken great offense at the late betrothal of a Russian Grand Duke to a Danish Princess, when there were plenty of damsels of royal Austrian and Prussian connection, ready to be wooed and won by the scion of the Romanoffs. When the King of Denmark comes to have one son-in-law on the English throne, and another wearing the imperial crown of Russia, it may be that he will be able to pay off the old score which he has lately run up against Austria and Prussia.

Company H, Oregon Infantry.—This company, eighty-three strong, under command of Capt. L. L. Williams of Douglas county, came down the Willamette last Saturday evening, and passed immediately on board the steamer for Vancouver, where they arrived the same evening. They were a fine, looking body of men, and a credit to the State.

Military Road.—On the 16th of January, Mr. McBride introduced a bill to amend an act entitled "An act granting lands to the State of Oregon to aid in the construction of a military road from Eugene City to the Eastern boundary of the State," approved July 2d, 1864, which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

"Whose God is Their Belly."—A French paper reports a meeting of French gourmets, whose aim and object in life is to produce some new dish. The latest novelty their combined wisdom has been able to devise, is a lobster boiled in champagne.

The Wheeler & Wilson Lock Stitch Sewing Machine, was first introduced in 1852, and from feeble beginnings, embarrassed by prejudices from the imperfections of machines then before the public, it has achieved an entire success, and won for Sewing Machines a recognition as being second to no material agent in human progress. It ranks in the domestic world as the railroads and telegraphs in the commercial. E. G. Randall is Agent.

The Kearsarge.—Captain Winslow has addressed a note to the public to correct an erroneous impression in regard to the amount of prize money which is due the crew of the Kearsarge. He says:

"The law regulating prize money applicable to the case of the Kearsarge [illegible] hundred dollars [illegible] Alabama. [illegible] It was [illegible] be equally divided among the crew and officers of the Kearsarge is something less than twenty-five thousand dollars in New York, and about eight thousand dollars in Boston. The crew had a letter read to them, when in the channel, that on the return of the Navy, [illegible] of the President to ask Congress to appropriate a sum equal to the full value of the Alabama for distribution as prize money, as it was judged the service rendered to the country fully warranted it."

As I sat at the Café I said to myself,
They may talk as they please about what they call pelf,
They may sneer as they like about eating and drinking,
But help it I cannot, I cannot help thinking
How pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
How pleasant it is to have money.

I sit at my table en grand seigneur,
And when I have done, throw a crust to the poor;
Not only the pleasure itself of good living,
But also the pleasure of now and then giving;
So pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So pleasant it is to have money.

They may talk as they please about what they call pelf,
And how one ought never to think of one's self,
How pleasures of thought surpass eating and drinking—
My pleasure of thought is the pleasure of thinking
How pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
How pleasant it is to have money.

II.—LE DINER.

Come along, 'tis the time, ten or more minutes past,
And he who came first had to wait for the last;
The oysters ere this had been in and been out;
Whilst I have been sitting and thinking about
How pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
How pleasant it is to have money!

A clear soup with eggs; voilà tout; of the fish
The filets de sole are a moderate dish
À la Orly, but you're for red mullet, you say:
By the gods of good fare, who can question to-day
How pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
How pleasant it is to have money.

After oysters, sauterne; then sherry; champagne,
Ere one bottle goes, comes another again;
Fly up, thou bold cork, to the ceiling above,
And tell to our ears in the sound that they love
How pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
How pleasant it is to have money.

I've the simplest of palates; absurd it may be,
But I almost could dine on a poulet-au-riz,
Fish and soup and omelette and that—but the deuce—
There were to be woodcocks, and not Charlotte Russe!
So pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So pleasant it is to have money.

Your Chablis is acid, away with the hock,
Give me the pure juice of the purple Medoc;
The St. Peray is exquisite, but, if you please,
Some Burgundy just before tasting the cheese;
So pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So pleasant it is to have money.

As for that, pass the bottle, and d—n the expense,
I've seen it observed by a writer of sense,
That the laboring classes could scarce live a day,
If the people like us didn't eat, drink, and pay;
So useful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So useful it is to have money.

One ought to be grateful, I quite apprehend,
Having dinner and supper and plenty to spend,
And so suppose now, while the things go away,
By way of a grace we all stand up and say
How pleasant it is to have money—heigh-ho!
How pleasant it is to have money!

III.
PARVENANT.

I cannot but ask, in the park and the streets,
When I look at the number of persons one meets,
Whate'er in the world the poor devils can do
Whose fathers and mothers can't give them a sous;
So needful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So needful it is to have money.

I ride and I drive and I care not a d—;
The people look up and they ask who I am;
And if I should chance to run over a cad,
I can pay for the damage if ever so bad;
So useful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So useful it is to have money!

It was but this Winter I came up to town,
And already I'm gaining a sort of renown;
Find my way to good houses without much ado—
Am beginning to see the nobility, too;
So useful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So useful it is to have money!

O dear! what a pity they ever should lose it,
Since they are the people that know how to use it;
So easy, so stately, such manners, such dinners,
And yet after all it is we are the winners;
So needful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So needful it is to have money!

It's all very well to be handsome and tall,
Which certainly makes you look well at a ball;
It's all very well to be clever and witty,
But if you are poor, why it's only a pity!
So needful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So needful it is to have money!

There's something undoubtedly in a fine air,
To know how to smile and be able to stare,
High-breeding is something, but, well-bred or not,
In the end the one question is, What have you got?
So needful it is to have money—heigh-ho!
So needful it is to have money!

And the angels in pink, and the angels in blue,
In muslins and moires so lovely and new,
What is it they want, and so wish you to guess?
But if you have money, the answer is, Yes;
So needful, they tell you, is money—heigh-ho!
So needful it is to have money!

Mrs. Partington Heard from Isaac.—Mrs. Partington thus discourses concerning her hopeful son Ike, who, it seems, has gone to the front. Says the dame: "Betsy Jane writ to you about poor Isaac bein' grafted into the noble army: it was during the late prevailing restriction. I've been so dreadful uneasy—laws a me! But at last we've heard from him by a neighbor who is home on a furrow. He—poor innocent—at one't took his place, so neighbor Tibbins says, as First Corpulent, and soon proved so deficient that he was promoted to be an Ordinary Surgeon—poor child! But what the blessed dear knows about taking up arterials, computations of limbs, and the like, surpasses me. Howsumever, if he can be the humble implement in the hands of the Lord of saving the lives of the gallus fellows whose heads have been disseminated by the bursting open of pontoons and other things, why we must sacrifice him freely on the alter of pleurisy uniform, and may the Lord have mercy on his solar system."

A carpenter who was always prognosticating evil to himself, was one day upon the roof of a five-story building, upon which had fallen a rain. The roof being slippery, he lost his footing, and as he was descending towards the eaves, he exclaimed: "Just as I told you!" Catching, however, in the tin spout he kicked off his shoes and regained a place of safety, from which he thus delivered himself: "I knowed it; there's a pair of shoes gone to—thunder."

A Jockey furnishes some hints as to how to sell your horse: "I tell you it's all by comparison—have the critter for sale long side of a scrub—aint one in fifty but what'll get fooled. They look first at the scrub and then at the other, and they think it's a 'strordinary critter. That's the way I came it on Jenkins, the livery man, with that gray colt."

New Jersey is out of debt, and claims a balance due her from the United States of $940,037. Her railroad monopoly pays the expenses of her State Government, and her people are not burthened with local taxes.

GLOUCESTER, March 26, 1864.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland,
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

In the 18th of January last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe [illegible] so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe, with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc.—their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the cloth business and had but little in the cellar. There were a number of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, [illegible] no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
[Signed] GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered systems. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above-mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease in any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once rebraced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor.—The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

ALLEN'S
LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,
Asthma, Croup,
Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
